FREE PUBLIC PROGRAM

Darfur, Darfur: Our Walls Bear Witness
Thursday, October 18, 2007, 6:30 pm

The genocide in Darfur has claimed the lives of hundreds of thousands of civilians. What is the history of the conflict and what can be done to stop it? This program seeks to answer these questions. Co-sponsored by the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum (USHMM). Ann Curry (moderator) is an Emmy Award-winning broadcaster, news anchor for the "Today" show, and co-anchor of "Dateline NBC." She has traveled three times to Sudan to report on the conflict. John Prendergast is a co-founder of the ENOUGH Campaign and a senior adviser to the International Crisis Group. He is coauthor, with actor/activist Don Cheadle, of Not On Our Watch. Omer Ismail is a refugee from Darfur and co-founder of Darfur Peace and Development, a U.S.-based advocacy organization.

Seating is limited. Please call SmartTix at 212-868-4444 to reserve tickets.

Darfur is one of the most compelling humanitarian crises of our time. A gripping display of building-sized photographic images from the war-stricken region will be projected onto the museum's exterior Central Park West walls, drawing our collective conscience to the civil war and genocide taking place in the Sudan. The pictures, collected from the work of internationally acclaimed photographers, make a dramatic statement about the need for action. The photos will be shown from approximately 6PM until 10PM every night from Thursday, October 18, through Wednesday, October 24.

The exhibit was edited by J. Matthew Jacob and curated by Leslie Thomas, author of DARFUR/DARFUR life/war. Co-Curators are Daniela Hrzic, Alexandra Kerr, Kevin Martin and Jane Sachs. It has been shown around the world, including on the walls of the USHMM in November of 2006. This exhibit is presented with the support of the Save Darfur Coalition, The John D. and Catherine T. MacArthur Foundation, Humanity United, and Global Grassroots.
